

OXFORD BUSINESS ALUMNI NETWORK

Code of Conduct for Alumni Volunteers

The Saïd Business School Alumni Relations Office (ARO) Code of Conduct applies to all volunteers of the Oxford Business Alumni (OBA) Network, including OBA chapter committee and general members; volunteers for the Alumni Country Champions (ACC) Scheme; volunteers for the Regional Ambassador (RA) Scheme; ARO student class representatives; and all other alumni who act in a volunteer capacity on behalf of the OBA Network of the Saïd Business School.

It is imperative volunteers positively embrace their membership of this exclusive network and understand that they are contributing to the success of the School and the University of Oxford.

The role of the OBA Network volunteer is held with high regard. A volunteer serves as an important ambassador on behalf of the Saïd Business School and University of Oxford to the alumni population, prospective students, faculty, administrators and all other external stakeholders to the School. The ARO expects the individual to represent the School and the University of Oxford in the most respectful manner and to uphold the prestige granted by being a student at the University of Oxford Saïd Business School by:

1. Liaising constructively and positively with the alumni population
2. Working collaboratively with faculty and administrators of the School regarding events, procedures and processes
3. Maintaining open dialogue between themselves and the ARO so all constituencies are apprised of ongoing activities, events, OBA chapter management, etc
4. Being a positive ambassador for the School and OBA Network
